

A PROCLAMATION.—At the recurrence of the season which the devout hearts of religious people have made the occasion for giving thanks to Almighty God, and humbly invoking his continued favor, has the material prosperity enjoyed by our whole country been justly maintained, to be the manifest and more universal. During the past year, also, unbroken peace with all foreign nations, the general prevalence of domestic tranquility, the supremacy and security of the great institutions of civil and religious freedom, have gladdened the hearts of our people and confirmed their attachment to their government, which the wisdom and courage of our ancestors so fully framed, and the wisdom and courage their descendants have so firmly maintained, to be the habitation of liberty and justice to successive generations. Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8TH, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and earnestly recommend that the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective places of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for his mercies, and to devoutly beseech their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this 3d day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine, and of the Independence of the United States and one hundred and fourth. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.
By the President: WM. M. EVARTS, Secretary of State.

The Democratic party will never condone the result of the elections.

Perpetual Democratic defeat, is more successful than perpetual motion.

The late Mr. Tilden, of Cipher memory, is completely counted out of the race in 1880.

The late elections killed two candidates for the Presidency—Cipher Tilden and Ben Butler. Tilden was dead before, but since the election he has been buried out of sight.

For sale, the Chairmanship of the Democratic State Committee; also some stereotyped roosters, flags, cannon, and other emblems of rejoicing, which the Democratic papers will never need in Wisconsin.
Apply at the Madison Democrat office.

Some Democratic papers are reminding the party that it had better make up its mind to "walk straight during the next session of Congress." How can a corpse walk straight, and what avail is repentance after death? The day of grace has fled for the Democratic party.

The investigation of the charges against the Milwaukee House of Correction is still in progress, and the indications are that the charges made by the Sentinel are not far from the truth. In the language of the Evening Wisconsin, "some of the cruelties detail would put barbarism to the blush, and seem almost too terrible for belief."

Says the Found on Lac Commonweath, of the Chairman of the Democratic Committee: "We denounce him to right thinking and fair minded men throughout this commonwealth as an infamously unscrupulous politician, and, as such, wholly deserving of the instincts of honor and decency which should characterize every honest man." This is about the estimate placed upon him by the people of Wisconsin.

The most remarkable criminal trial on record is that of Rev. Hayden for the murder of Mary Stannard, in Connecticut. The crime was committed last year, and on a preliminary examination Mr. Hayden was discharged, but he was immediately rearrested, and indicted for murder. The trial has been in progress for several weeks, and by the aid of science, he will doubtless be convicted of the murder of the poor girl. It now appears that he poisoned her, and afterwards cut her throat. Almost indistinct parts of a knife blade were found in the left boot which Hayden wore at the time of the murder. This is a startling revelation, and both the check of the girl, and the boot-heel, will be offered in evidence.

UNSUCCESSFUL WOMEN FOR OFFICE.
During the late canvass three women were nominated in Wisconsin for County Superintendents of Schools—Mrs. O. R.
Smith, of Monroe county, Miss Richmond, of Green county, and Miss Cuckow, of the Second District of Rock county—and all were defeated. Their defeat was not caused by any distrust the people had of their ability to discharge the duties of office, because all of them are women of high qualifications, but they happened to get on the unpopular side of politics. While it is true the offices they sought are not political offices, and should not be, the fact nevertheless remains, that both parties still nominate partisans for these places, and as a general rule, this custom will prevail so long as party organization is kept up.
Therefore, if women propose to run for office against men, they must be prepared like men, for defeat, and not expect because they are women, that politics will be thrown aside and by common consent they be elected to office.

Mrs. O. R. Smith, whose husband was at one time Superintendent of Schools of Janesville, and who accidentally killed himself two years ago last August, was nominated by the Democrats of Monroe county. She is a woman of education, and being in unfortunate circumstances, we felt like laying aside all party considerations and hoped for her election. But party feeling ran high in

THE NEWS.

Monroe county, and the Republicans swept the county as by storm, and Mrs. Smith is among the defeated. The case of Miss Richmond, of Green county, did not attract the attention nor enlist the sympathy of the people, like that of Mrs. Smith's. She is a young woman of good attainments, but having gone to the Democratic party for an office, she suffered the late of the party. It seems that the novelty of the Democratic nomination did not draw materially from the Republican party.

Mrs. Cuckow, who is an experienced teacher and a thorough scholar, was nominated by the Prohibitionists, and endorsed by the Democrats. There was something novel in voting for a woman for office, and the Democratic party, young men who wanted to do the lady honor, and some sore-heads, rushed to her support. She fared better than either Mrs. Smith or Miss Richmond, and though she was defeated, she ran very much ahead of the Democratic ticket, and came within 200 votes of an election.

There is a growing sentiment that women should be elected to these offices, and we are under the impression that it would be a wise policy to give them a fair trial.
If they can do the work as it should be done, will give it the study and attention it deserves, there are no objections to their holding the office if they can get it.

THE DEMOCRATS AND THE GUBER-NATORIAL QUESTION.

The Madison Democrat of the 7th instanc, says:
The ablest and withal the most pure and disinterested man who ever ran for governor in this state upon the Democratic ticket, were Henry L. Palmer and James G. Jenkins, and we speak in no disparagement of others, and it is these very two who have been beaten by the greatest majorities. A poor commentary upon Wisconsin people.

It is very true that the ablest men ever nominated by the Democrats for the office of Governor, were Henry L. Palmer and James G. Jenkins. Aside from being men of ability, they are gentlemen of varied accomplishments and scholarly training, and would have dignified the gubernatorial office. But even in face of these facts it is not strange that they were defeated by the greatest majorities. The Madison Democrat may charge their defeat to the ignorance of "Wisconsin people," and it may profess to wonder why such pure men as Palmer and Jenkins could be sent down with the Democratic wreck, but the cause of their defeat is plain enough, and the Democrat is not entirely ignorant of that cause.

When Henry L. Palmer was nominated for Governor in 1863, there was a deadly contest going on between the United States Government and the rebels of the South.
That contest was to settle the question whether or not this Government was to surrender to traitors and to the slave aristocracy which attempted to overthrow the Constitution. Henry L.
Palmer, like the great mass of the Democratic party, and especially like the leaders of the party at the time, was in deep sympathy with the traitors and the Slave Power of the South. He wanted the Government beaten in the attempt to make the South stay in the Union. He was probably honest in his convictions, and we all know he was bold in giving expression to his feelings. James T. Lewis, who was then Secretary of State, was nominated by the Republicans, and was elected over Palmer by a majority of 23, 661. To express surprise that Palmer should have been beaten under these circumstances, shows a remarkable degree of weakness on the part of the Madison Democrat, for it could not be expected that a State like Wisconsin would elect as its Chief Magistrate, a man who was known to favor the South during the great conflict between Freedom and Slavery.

When James G. Jenkins was nominated in 1879, the Democratic party was in no better condition than it was in 1863. It had experienced the flat lunacy; had favored repudiation; had abandoned an honest money policy; had endorsed the extra session of Congress; had justified the crime of fraud; had endorsed all the frauds, intimidations, massacres by day and murders by night, in the South; had submitted to the dictates of the Southern leaders; and had joined hands with them in the effort to throw the Government into the hands of the Confederates.
This was the record of the Democratic party of Wisconsin when Mr. Jenkins accepted the nomination for Governor. Is it any wonder that in the face of these facts he was beaten by 25,000 majority? To be sure he is popular, is an educated gentleman, and is honest, and all that, and so is Mr. Palmer, but their party is extremely bad, their leaders not being political schemers, and they were dragged down and buried into the general wreck.
This is what is the matter with the Democratic party of Wisconsin, and its most "popular" men can't save it from ruin, so long as the party remains dishonest and yields to the dictates and demands of the Solid South.

But there is another thing that helped amazingly to swell Governor Smith's majority. His administration has been most unexceptionable. In character and solid manhood he is the peer of any man in the State, and each officer of the administration has done his full duty. Notwithstanding these facts, the Madison Democrat, conducted by the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and several other papers, began a malignant warfare against Governor Smith. They resorted to everything that was vile, contemptible, and false, to injure him. But this villainous course hurt their own party, and this had its influence to make Governor Smith's majority the greatest ever known in the State. Mr. Jenkins popularity and ability, could not serve as an antidote to the malignity of his party papers.

A DEAD DUCK.

The Post Goes Back on Tilden as a Candidate.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The Washington Post, which has always been a warm advocate of Tilden's interests, this morning goes back on the "old man" in an editorial as follows: "It must be held that the defeat of Governor Robinson in New York finally disposes of the Presidential aspirations of Mr. Tilden. That gentleman staked his all on the result of the Gubernatorial contest, and has lost. The issue was perfectly plain from the beginning.
Mr. Tilden made it himself, and the party accepted it. If by the election of Robinson, who was his personal candidate and was looked upon as such, he should demonstrate his own ability to carry the Empire State next fall in spite of the well known defeat among his supporters which, in the present instance, took form in an open revolt, it was generally understood that he was to have the Democratic nomination next year, and he would have gotten it. The announcement of Robinson's triumph would have ended all opposition to him, but Robinson was beaten—badly beaten, and his failure contained the positive proof of Tilden's inability to carry New York, and his consequent unfitness as a Presidential candidate. We have now the right to demand that Mr. Tilden, having thus conclusively established his weakness, give way to men better qualified to lead the Democratic party in the national battle next year.

GALENA.

General Grant Taking it Easy at Galena.

GALENA, Nov. 7.—General Grant has spent the day in a quiet manner, and relieved of the fatigues of travel and handshaking he has been subjected to, is availing himself of the opportunity, for the first time afforded in two and a half years, to seek rest and recreation from the weariness he has undergone.
This forenoon he spent a portion of the time walking about the streets, conversing with friends and perusing the morning papers in President McClellan's private office at the Bank of Galena.
This afternoon was devoted to reading and answering letters and telegrams, and in taking a short stroll over the hills in the vicinity of his residence.

Mrs. Grant, though still suffering from the fatigue of her long journey, was able to receive a few callers this afternoon.
The grand arch on the corner of Main and Green streets, which was somewhat demoralized by fire on Wednesday night, caused by the accidental explosion of fireworks, is now being restored, and is not to be taken down until the General leaves the city.

Postmaster Huntington, who suffered so severely from the explosion, has improved slightly since last night, and hopes are now entertained of his ultimate recovery.

FALLEN WALLS.

Seven Persons Crushed to Death in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 7.—A terrible disaster occurred on the corner of Second and Main streets this afternoon. The extensive cracker and candy manufactory of Carle & Sons, occupying four brick three-story buildings, tumbled down and were completely consumed by fire. At the time the accident occurred 107 persons, mostly boys and girls from 12 to 20 years, were at work in the factory, all of whom escaped alive except seven. The cause of the accident cannot be fully determined, but as an explosion occurred simultaneously with the fall of the wall, it is supposed to be a repetition of the accident in New York last year, a starch explosion. As soon as the walls fell, the buildings took fire, and the fire department was on hand in five minutes, and by their efficient service the buildings adjoining. As soon as the news of the accident had spread about the city, the parents and friends of those employed there flocked to the scene to learn the fate of their loved ones, with anguish depicted upon their countenances, until the found those for whom they sought. When the firemen had subdued the flames, they set to work digging for dead, and up to 10 p. m. had taken out three, Emma Kemper, Anna Becker, Charles Schubert. These still missing are supposed to be in the ruins are, Louise Hummel, Andy McConnell, George Kemper, and Johnny Kemper.

BUSHELL'S VIEW OF JESUS.

A Lecture Delivered in All Souls Church Janesville, Wis., November 2, 1879, by Jenk L. Jones.

As you will remember during the month of September, I gave, in the line of my duties as pastor of this church, a course of four Sunday evening lectures upon the Fundamental Positions of my faith, in which I tried to explain the positions which this church stands for, positions which are at once our cause of being and the aims of our work. These lectures I procured the publication of in the several issues of the Janesville Gazette. Soon after their completion the following appeared in the columns of that paper:

"JANESVILLE, Oct. 1, 1879.
"DEAR SIR:—We, the undersigned, join in requesting that you publish your earliest convenience the accompanying argument of the late Dr. Horace Bushnell. It is the matchless treatise—'That the Character of Jesus Forbids His Possible Classification with Men.'—otherwise known as the famous '10th Chapter of his 'Nature and the Supernatural.'"

This express portion has been esteemed worthy of special publication elsewhere, but is not accessible to all your readers.
"Therefore, in view of counteracting what your columns have recited of late, and besides, to preclude personal controversy, we again respectfully request that this masterful dissertation be given an entrance to do a good work. Cordially &c., THOS. MCLEAN, F. W. SANDERSON, T. P. SAWYER, F. L. CURRIE, HENRY SEWELL, A. L. ROYCE, H. FAYLLE."

The above request was complied with.
The chapter has been published in disjointed parts, the last installment appearing in yesterday's paper.
Inasmuch as these seven ministers have united in putting this forward as it were an official declaration of their position, at least as toward the word and work of this church; inasmuch as it was ostensibly presented to "counteract" my retorts, I cannot, in justice to myself, yourself and the truth do otherwise than notice this, what the brethren call, "matchless treatise."
I shall try, as soon as may be, to arrange my thoughts under the three following heads:

- I. Concerning the present use of the Argument.
- II. Concerning the Argument itself.
- III. Concerning the Previous Question.

CONCERNING PRESENT USE OF THE ARGU-MENT.

1. It is but just to him who would intelligently go to this argument for light, if he honestly seeks the best help, to be reminded that this is an antique book published in 1858, and is Bushnell's conclusions in his prelate, written some years before that, ready for the press two years previous, but prevented from more prompt publication by ill health, which compelled his abandoning the ministry forever, the year following. Are we to understand that these last 23 years of marvelous intellectual activity, of wonderful research into the history of religions, during which time it may be said the grave and important science of Comparative Religions has sprung into existence, has not advanced the eyes of these seven brethren? Do they have no word either in explanation or answer, to the honorable contributions of thinkers as honest and as religious as Bushnell with more scholarship, wider means of information, upon whose authority the humanitarian positions, recited by me in my previous lecture, can be based, and in China, where he scarcely elicited anything but favorable criticisms from all schools.
Hay's startling presentation of slowly acquired facts concerning Zoroaster and the Persian spirituality. Tiele's Compend of the History of Religions as well as the best authorities upon christian scripture and scriptural texts. Kuenen, Davidson, Smith, Stacy saying nothing of the honored arguments of James Martineau, Matthew Arnold, T. W. Higginson, James Freeman Clarke and others. They are all unnoted in this work of Bushnell because they were all unwritten. So were also a whole line of books bearing upon Nature, its laws, its meaning and its method which none would be more willing or more able to study than Horace Bushnell had they been in existence, such as the Duke of Argyll's 'Reign of Law', the anonymous work, 'Supernatural Religion', (probably the ablest discussion of the whole question now in print). The work of Herbert Spencer and his brilliant and earnest associates. All these works may for some time longer be ignored in comparatively private ministrations of a pulpit where a man seldom talks to others than those who agree with him, or are subject unto him in matters of religious thought and information but they cannot be ignored by those who would enter the larger arena of public print. These brethren cannot "counteract" the influence of any line of thought among "those who read the papers" by presenting to them a last year's bird's nest however ingeniously and beautifully it may be wrought. Time has added the eggs in it. Brethren, people do not care so much to know what Horace Bushnell, with his progressive mind, thought upon these questions a quarter of a century ago as they are anxious to know what the Horace Bushnells of to day, the honest word, clear headed, and progressive in-quirers who have studied these questions up to date are thinking about them.

2. Again, it is just to the inquirer after truth to be reminded that this book is not only antique in time but it is an antique in Bushnell's life. It was followed by 18 years of consecrated study, marked by such continuous growth and such persistence that his theological relations were a continuous source of doubt and inquiry.
Year after year the question "Where does Bushnell stand?" was a living question, because he was not stationary as a tree but moving as a star, ever loyal to the orbit of a truth seeker. Bushnell was one who stood undaunted by any seeming degeneracy of faith, knowing that only the wisdom of men vanishes away." [Vic. Sec.
vol. II, p. 21.] His greatest work—that on "The Variations of Atoneement" published in 1865, seven years later the latter half of it, [part III and IV] he would have replaced with an entirely new book had not the conservatism of his friends pleaded for the retention of the old, and so the new part is now published independently as a little book. The introduction to this latter part the cry "Return to none of the theological forms I have rejected."
"I recant no one denial" [do. p. 12—14
vol. II] but insists "that he should not forget his own small measures when larger measure were given" [him] besides "how shall a man ever get rid of his old."

All references are to the last uniform edition of Bushnell's works published by Scribner, Armstrong & Co.

ins when he cannot let go his little outgrowns opinions." This book is presented in that modest spirit of one groping towards the truth. In his opening preface he declares that it is not even a positive theory, claiming for it only the name of an "hypothesis" [Nat. & Super-Nat. p. III.] which he has framed, hoping that it may cover the facts of Christiana experience.

In closing he expresses the hope that faith may be found in the field of modern science lifting it into intellectual majesty.
A careful reading of the book discloses all through the minor inconsistencies which always characterize the large mind's search after truth. While compared with some of his later works there are most suggestive hints of how modification upon modification would follow if the Horace Bushnell of 1856, could have been kept strong and vigorous in the work he had laid out for himself and the book brought up to date. 'Tis disloyal to the progressive spirit of Horace Bushnell to try to kill to sleep the inquiring spirit of this commonplace of speech, if he is not to inquire what that figure rests upon. The present use of this tenth chapter reminds us of the story of the Sophist in the greek reader, who wanting to sell his house, carried a brick to the market place as a sample.
This is one link snapped from a chain and the strength of the chain is determined by its weakest not its strongest link. If the habit of the pulpit, which rubrically uses texts regardless of their surroundings, become so chronic with these brethren that they do not see the context must be taken into account before this text, the "Tenth Chapter," can be understood. The very first sentence of the newspaper argument, "The need of a supernatural, divine ministration, to restore the disorders of sin, is now shown!" [p. 276] Not to the readers of the Gazette, nor to any one who has not been able to wade through the most abstruse and metaphysical argument in preceding chapters, particularly the fourth and fifth chapters which probably not five men in the city outside the clergy could be induced to read. The fact of sin and man's helpless condition which makes the tenth chapter necessary is proven in the fourth by such a thesis as this:

"Made originally perfect, man is still in a certain private 'that involves his certain lapse into evil.' 'My condition private,' he says as he stands 'a moral state that is either incomplete, lacking something not yet reached which is necessary to the probable result, and will, in fact, run into the fire; not because of any necessity upon him, but simply because he is conscious of it, and he knows the experience needed to prevent him.' I said also 'involves a certain lapse into evil' not 'produces' 'induces' or 'makes necessary.'" [pp.
100-101]

And goes on for the next page to show that "involves" is the only word that can be used here without leading into error.
It is not necessary for me to remind my seven brethren that the chain cannot be stronger than the weakest link in it, that the 10th chapter argument is no stronger than the premises that are laid down in those labored and dry chapters that precede it, for they, trained to scholarly thought and methodic reasoning, know that already, but it is necessary to remind the unsophis-ticated reader that he is at the mercy of a most ingenious and subtle logician who is working conscientiously in the line of the old schoolmen, working out a philosophy which will accommodate a preconceived theology, fitting his facts to the theory rather than the theory to the facts. "One who,"
to use the words of an eminent critic and divine,

"was rather ingenious than successful in attempting to make the old language speak the new thought, who spent a great deal of force in a way which would have brought more to pass in order more simple and direct, and who, in the end, belonged to an age of transition in things of faith and it will pass away."
It is well for the reader to understand that Dr. Bushnell is the best representative of a whole class of noble men who stand to-day in the foreground of Orthodox and heterodox of Heterodoxy, men who are trying to put the new wine into the old bottles, who are trying to make the venerable temple of Orthodox theology off from the rotten timbers of dogma, creeds and textual literalism onto a surer and newer foundation of logic, philosophy, and science even. This is the most industrious department of ortho-doxy to-day. Such books as President Bacmon's "Philosophy of Religion," the rhetorical batteries of Joseph Cook are wheeled into this service. Beecher, Thomas and Swing have worked long in that direction, but they are becoming less and less satisfied with the methods I take it, the latter remarking the other day to a friend representing the vacant pulpit of Unity church that "previous engagements had finally reached the point where he was galled enough for him though it had taken him a long time to get there." It is necessary in justice to the reader and the author to know that this chapter is the tenth round in a logical ladder built in Bushnell's brain for Bushnell's use, out of Bushnell's timber, and if any of the preceding rounds give way there is no use for the tenth. It is well, also, to know where the ladder leads to. The still more

Dr. V. CLARENCE PRICE

Visited Janesville

EIGHTEEN YEARS.

HAS met with unparalleled success in the treatment of all

Chronic Diseases

OF THE

THROAT,

LUNGS,

HEART,

STOMACH,

LIVER.

Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired by candident, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice is not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experience, and evidence to sustain it. It is not a treatment, no trifling, no meddling. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowledge gained of years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Cautious in our opinions, responsible in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure every body, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, to matter what their ailment, to call and investigate before they abandon hope, make interjections and decide for yourselves. It will cost nothing as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

SPLENDIDS!

Sold from the little store, 56 North Main Street, stove, and every one giving perfect satisfaction.

It is an easy matter for dealers to have every thing in stock. Well, now we have got a stove to show the Splendid! But when you ask them to show up the points of superiority, about all the satisfaction you get is "Well, we've more of them than you, and that's all." But when you get down to the points of superiority, the following points possessed by the SLENDID, and found in no other stove to date, is what troubles all the boys to get around.

1st. By the Ventilated Base we present one-third more heating surface.

2d. By the Latch fastening for all doors, in place of Turn Buckles, you are safe from doors springing open, thereby emitting gases into rooms.

3d. By the Sliding and Vibrating Grate we enable you to have a fresh fire at any time free from dust and waste of coal.

4th. The sectional Fire Pot will last longer and can be replaced at one third the expense of any other.

5th. The Revolving Top swinging within circle of stove, never falls off or gets broken.

In regard to finish and fittings of castings and beauty of design, are way ahead of all competitions.

In regard to the Splendid Oven or Parlor Cook, we are authorized to make a public test at any time, and guarantee to get up steam quicker and hold it longer on same amount of coal.

BRIEFLETS.

—Shut up for Sunday.
—It seems hard work for November to establish its reign.

—The usual song and praise service at the First Methodist church to-night.

—The People's Lodge of Good Templars added six new members last night.

—In the Circuit Court to-day the case of Waffle vs. McLeellan is still on trial.

—Miss Ida Bintliff, daughter of General Bintliff, of Lexington, is in the city.

—Wm. A. Lawrence is confined to his home by illness. We trust it will not prove serious.

—Rev. Jenk L. Jones, preaches at Tor, "The Character of Christ."

—The suit of the Guards against the Rock County Agricultural Society has been adjourned until a week from Monday.

—Rev. Henry Faville is the one who is to preach the Thanksgiving sermon at a union service of the churches here this year.

—Mrs. Jones, Mrs. C. W. Baker, Mrs. F. C. Cook, and Miss Ida Harris are to take part in the meeting of the M. I. C. next Monday night.

—The case of the State vs. H. C. Hadley was this morning amicably settled, the complainants being satisfied, and the matter is to be dropped.

—To-morrow evening the Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist churches unite at Court Street church in an anniversary meeting of the Rock County Bible Society.

—Dr. Sutherland's little son is better to-day, and his condition is such as to give cause for hope that he will recover more speedily from the accident than was at first expected.

—Owing to the funeral of Mrs. Case to-morrow, Rev. Mr. Sewell will not exchange with Dr. Benson, of Madison, as expected. Mr. Sewell will occupy his pulpit as usual to-morrow morning.

—Moung Edwin, a converted Karen, is in the city, and will preach at the Baptist church to-morrow evening. Possibly he will arrange to lecture here during the coming week on the customs of Borneo.

—There was a pleasant gathering of friends last evening at the residence of Mr. A. Smith. The hours were given to social converse, and refreshments, making the evening an enjoyable one to all who participated.

—The postoffice doors will be closed to-night at eight o'clock sharp, for the purpose of scrubbing the floor. Letters can be mailed as usual after that hour in the door box, and stamped can be found at King's bookstore.

—There was a quiet little wedding this morning, the contracting parties being Mr. Joe M. Crandall and Miss Lillian S. Myers, of Harmony. Rev. Mr. Sewell tied the knot, and the happy pair started at once for Rockford to visit friends.

—A spark from the furnace started a little blaze at Bob's brewery early yesterday morning. Mr. Bob's little daughter discovered it in time to alarm her father, and have the blaze put out by water from the barrels which are kept perched on the roof.

—The committee appointed by the Temple of Honor last night to arrange for a social, have decided to have it on the 18th, at the Temple hall. Harry Anderson's band will furnish the music, and of course a happy time will result. The tickets are to be only fifty cents.

—The Sharon Reporter gives an elaborate account of John Lunkin's lecture at the Armory in this city, and the wild way in which he was arrested and tried for various supposed offenses, and of course acquitted. It says he has reached home in safety, and that he will deliver the balance of the lecture here at some future date.

—The Temple of Honor's new officers were installed last night. The newly-elected Worthy Chief, M. S. Pritchard, gave a stirring speech, on taking the chair. The Temple also decided to give a social at an early date, and for that purpose appointed a committee consisting of George H. Osgood, J. B. Hemmingway, J. D. Holmes, Frank Echlin, and J. W. Tipney.

—Prof. A. B. Severance will reopen his dancing academy at Apollo hall next Wednesday evening. He needs no introduction to the public for everybody knows him, and he will have no difficulty in getting the best kind of patronage. This season there will be some new dances introduced, and the course will be such as will enable the pupils to join in any and all the various dances used in fashionable society.

—A woman who was on the witness stand in the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon refused to control her tongue, and belittled and teased the lawyers were fools for asking such questions. A few such remarks led the Judge to inform her that unless she behaved differently he would have the Sheriff remove her from the room. She said she could go without the Sheriff, and she went, but that officer went with her by order of the Court, and peace reigned again.

—Oskosh has a Mutual Improvement Club, and has arranged a programme for this winter, based largely on that arranged by the R. and F. of this city. Mr. John Hicks, of the Oskosh Northwestern, in a letter to Rev. Mr. Sawin, says: "We organized ourselves on the plan of yours, but I think we made it more within the range of younger people. Yours, of course, was our model, and we understood it, and to you we are largely indebted for our plan. Our meetings last winter were crowded every night."

—Mrs. Merritt Case, who has been so ill for several months, died at 6 o'clock this morning. Her health has been feeble for a long time, and a few months ago she slipped and fell breaking her thigh. Since that time her life has been despaired of, but she would rally a little and seem more comfortable, although there had been no ground for hope for her permanent recovery. She was quite frail and feeble, being in her 75th. The funeral services are to be held at the home to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. H. Faville officiates, assisted by Rev. H. Faville.

OFF FOR CHICAGO.

Many of our citizens are arranging to visit Chicago next week, there being unusual attractions there as all know. Of course the Great reception is "the big thing" of the week, and will draw to Chicago thousands upon thousands of people.

The railroad companies have put the rates clear down, so that all can reach them without stretching enough to hurt them, and many will avail themselves of the excellent opportunity thus afforded. We would also suggest to our readers, as we have several times before, that if they want to be comfortable and happy during their stay in Chicago, either on this or any other occasion, they should make the Tremont house their headquarters. It is one of the choice places, everything being neat, roomy, homelike,—in fact all that could be desired. The Tremont house is run in better shape now than ever in its history, and a person can't help but like it. There is solid comfort in staying there, and for a Wisconsin man especially it is just the place, for it has become a sort of headquarters for Badgers, and one is sure to meet more or less of his friends and acquaintances there, if there are any of them in the city. The wise ones will bear the Tremont in mind.

Another thing which will interest many who visit Chicago next week is the Fat Stock Show at the Exposition building. Last year a most successful show was had of this kind. Among the steers exhibited there was one which weighed 3,155 pounds. It is not known what there will be this year, except that the show promises to be a better one in all respects. It is an exhibition of butcher stock, and is of practical benefit to feeders and breeders, and of interest to all who take any delight in seeing fine stock.

TRAVELERS, stop at the ASTER HOUSE, New York.

WEARY WALKING.

At noon to-day Jeffrey had accomplished 249 miles, and had twelve hours more to make up the six days' tramp so that he will not probably make more than 275 miles in all. He has good grit and in that respect is to be commended. There will probably be a goodly number in to-night to see the finish of the arduous task, for as it is intended, to keep walking, for six days, with only brief respites for rest and food. The track is a difficult one to make good time on, there being thirty laps to the mile, making 120 laps at the corners. Jeffrey is somewhat lame, but when walking makes his mile in fourteen and fifteen minutes.

The prize of a silver cup for the amateur making ten miles in the speediest time, "go as you please," was won by Rob Rogan, whose time was one hour, twenty-one minutes. The other two contestants were Webster and Brown, the former of whom was six minutes behind and the latter eight minutes.

HE COULDN'T STAND IT.

Our friend Heimstreet, the druggist, is continually finding out some new thing in his business by experimenting, and now he has tried another experiment, which has resulted as it has resulted with scores of others. For ten years past he has kept his banner flying to the breeze, through the columns of the Gazette, and his business has steadily increased by this means, backed by energetic work on his part, but the first part of this year he tried the experiment of dropping his advertisement, thinking that perhaps it didn't pay. He don't think so now, and yesterday he dropped into the Gazette office, and frankly owned up that there was no use trying to do business without advertising in the old reliable Gazette. He has tested the matter by actual experience and is satisfied that it does pay to advertise in the Gazette, and pays big. He don't stand alone in this opinion, but has plenty of company.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY FRANK A. EVANSON, DRUGGIST.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 56 degrees above zero; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 58 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 59 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 70 degrees above.

One year ago to-day at 7 o'clock a. m., the thermometer stood at 35 degrees above and at 2 o'clock p. m., at 44 degrees above.

The indications to-day are, for the upper lake region, increasing cloudiness, light rain falling followed by rising barometer, southerly winds, and lower temperature.

St. Jacob's Oil having come to my no tie, I determined to try some for Rheumatism, which has troubled me more or less for the last two years, and I find St. Jacob's Oil, all that it is claimed to be. I use a little, as I feel the effects of the old complaint coming on, and in it there is instant relief; so I do recommend it to every one that is troubled with Rheumatism.

FLLOURISHING FINELY.

We have before us the monthly report of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. It shows the order to be in a most flourishing condition. The Grand Recorder says there were no deaths reported for the month of October, consequently no assessment for November, and if only one death should occur in November, there will be no assessment for December, there being no assessment on hand to meet two losses. There has been but one assessment in nine months, which is cheap insurance.

There are seventy-four Lodges in the State, with a membership of about twenty-eight hundred. The Lodge here is constantly on the increase. Dr. B. T. Sanborn, is the medical examiner to whom we would refer those who wish to join this most beneficent order.

NOBLES IS COMING.

There is considerable interest aroused by the announcement that Milton Nobles and his dramatic company are to be at the Opera house next Wednesday evening and that the play of "The Phoenix" will be then presented. It is a thrilling drama, one which arouses an audience, and keeps it alert. Its situations are stirring, its plot intensely interesting, and all know, who saw it when it was here before, that it is put on in the very best shape. The company will make a pleasing entertainment.

ment as has been on the boards for months.

The New York Times says of it: "The Phoenix" contains all the elements of popular success, and Mr. Nobles, the author, has been endowed by nature with a fund of mingled humor and pathos, admirably suited to the requirements of the stellar role.

Still Down at Bottom Prices

Notwithstanding the recent advance in all kinds of Furniture, we are determined to keep prices as heretofore. Having kept posted as to the doings of the recent Convention of Furniture Manufacturers, we took advantage of the market and purchased 100 dozen Chairs, about four car loads, at the old prices with usual discounts. That's good news for persons wishing to purchase such goods. All goods at lowest prices. Parlor and Chamber Furniture the largest stock that was ever brought to this city. Our trade has never been better than last month. For five years past things have been booming with us. No use going to Chicago for Chamber Sets; we can beat them; we had it finely illustrated here to-day. No cheap goods here, but good goods cheap. No green lumber. If things are not as we tell you, we are here and you can see us; we are going to stay. Call and look over our stock.
